Human Rights of Older Persons – Advancing an International Agenda

Alexandre Sidorenko
Main message:

The human rights dimension of policy on ageing goes beyond ensuring the various rights of older persons. It can also be viewed as a vehicle for advancing the entire international agenda on ageing.
Outline of presentation

1. Ageing and older persons in the United Nations instruments on human rights
2. Human rights in the UN policy frameworks on ageing.
3. Progress in implementation of the UN policy frameworks on ageing.
1. Ageing and older persons in the United Nations instruments on human rights

Ageing and older persons are missing from the main documents of the United Nations on human rights
Milestone documents of the United Nations on human rights:

- the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948)
- the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (1966)
- the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (1966)
- the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (1979)

None of the above documents contains direct references to older persons.
Usual pretext:

While the milestone documents of the United Nations on human rights do not directly refer to older persons, the universal nature of these documents implicitly recognizes the rights of older members of a society.
Meanwhile, the rights of older persons have specifically been reflected in:

- The International Convention on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families (1990)
Also, several draft documents that specifically addressed the rights of older persons were submitted to the UN:

- Declaration of Old Age Rights (Argentina, 1948)
  1. Right to assistance
  2. Right to accommodation
  3. Right to food
  4. Right to clothing
  5. Right to the care of physical health
  6. Right to the care of moral health
  7. Right to recreation
  8. Right to work
  9. Right to stability
  10. Right to respect
Also, several draft documents that specifically addressed the rights of older persons were submitted to the UN:

- Declaration of Old Age Rights (Argentina, 1948)
- Declaration on the Rights of Older Persons (IFA and the Dominican Republic, 1991) → UN Principles for Older Persons
- Charter for a Society for All Ages (AARP, 1999)
- Declaration of Interdependence (the Dominican Republic and AARP, 1999)

Only one modified document was adopted: The UN Principles for Older Persons
“UN Ambassador for Ageing”

Ambassador Julia Tavares Alvarez
1937 - 2012
2. Human rights in the UN policy frameworks on ageing.

The UN policy frameworks on ageing are inclusive of human rights of older persons.

Political Declaration

- ...promote democracy...
- ...strengthen the rule of law...
- ...promote gender equality...
- ...promote and protect human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the right to development...
- ...eliminate all forms of discrimination, including age discrimination...
- ...recognized that persons, as they age, should enjoy a life of fulfillment, health, security and active participation in the economic, social, cultural and political life of their societies...
- ...enhance the recognition of the dignity of older persons and to eliminate all forms of neglect, abuse and violence...
I. Introduction

10. ...The aim of the International Plan of Action is to ensure that persons everywhere are able to age with security and dignity and to continue to participate in their societies as citizens with full rights. (...)

12. ...Central themes (11) of the Madrid Plan of Action:
(a) The full realization of all human rights and fundamental freedoms of all older persons;
(b) Ensuring the full enjoyment of economic, social and cultural rights, and civil and political rights of persons and the elimination of all forms of violence and discrimination against older persons;
(f) Commitment to gender equality among older persons through, inter alia, elimination of gender-based discrimination...

13. The promotion and protection of all human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the right to development, is essential for the creation of an inclusive society for all ages in which older persons participate fully and without discrimination and on the basis of equality. Combating discrimination based on age and promoting the dignity of older persons is fundamental to ensuring the respect that older persons deserve.
Priority direction III: Ensuring enabling an supportive environments

Issue 3: Neglect, abuse and violence

Objective 1: Elimination of all forms of neglect, abuse and violence of older persons.

Objective 2: Creation of support services to address elder abuse.
3. Progress in implementation of the UN policy frameworks on ageing.

Thus, the human rights of older persons are included into the main strategic documents of the United Nations on ageing.

What about the progress in implementing these documents?
Two international plans of action on ageing – similar results of implementation...

1985: First Review & Appraisal:
“...limited progress in improving the living conditions of [older persons]...”

1989: Second Review & Appraisal:
“...little progress...”

1993: Third Review & Appraisal
“... daunting task.”

1997: Fourth Review & Appraisal
“... minimal response...”

2007: First Review & Appraisal:
‘some success’, as well as ‘significant gaps in progress’

2012: Second Review & Appraisal:
‘Overall progress in the implementation ... has continued to be uneven, with several shortfalls.’

2017: Third Review & Appraisal:
(No global conclusion: review and appraisal were conducted at national and regional levels)
What are the causes of the limited progress in implementing the international strategies on ageing – the Vienna and the Madrid Plans of Action?

Legally non-binding nature of strategies (without ratification; there is no mandatory reporting mechanism; there is no international body for monitoring the compliance and progress in implementation...)

Self-reporting, self-assessing and non-binding nature of the review and appraisal exercise

Lack of continuity and consistency in the periodic review of results

The benchmarks, the interim results (outputs) and the final points of destination (outcomes) are loosely defined or descriptive at best.

Absence of clearly defined criteria for appraising the progress, the findings of the review and appraisal are usually based on anecdotal evidence and self-assessment

Most often it is outputs, not outcomes that are monitored and assessed, thus making the analysis of policy impact obscure.

Limited, if any, use of indicators prevents analyzing the dynamics of national actions and comparing implementation progress in different countries.

Sidorenko & Zaidi, 2018
How to make the implementation of international strategies on ageing more streamlined, efficient and effective?

I. Improve the public significance and political power of the United Nations strategic documents in the field of aging:

- Develop and adopt an international legally binding instrument, such as a convention

II. Develop and implement universal tools and a universal procedure for assessing the progress of implementation and compliance
4. Towards a Convention on the rights of older persons

Where do we stand?

Excerpts from the Resolution:

28. Decides to establish an open-ended working group (…) for the purpose of strengthening the protection of the human rights of older persons by considering the existing international framework of the human rights of older persons and identifying possible gaps and how best to address them, including by considering, as appropriate, the feasibility of further instruments and measures (…);

Resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 20 December 2012
[on the report of the Third Committee (A/67/449 and Corr.1)]

67/139. Towards a comprehensive and integral international legal instrument to promote and protect the rights and dignity of older persons

1. Decides that the Open-ended Working Group on Ageing... consider proposals for an international legal instrument to promote and protect the rights and dignity of older persons...

2. Requests the Working Group to present to the General Assembly, at the earliest possible date, a proposal containing, inter alia, the main elements that should be included in an international legal instrument to promote and protect the rights and dignity of older persons, which are not currently addressed sufficiently by existing mechanisms and therefore require further international protection.
Promotion and protection of all human rights, civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights, including the right to development

The Human Rights Council,

... 5. Decides to appoint, for a period of three years, an independent expert on the enjoyment of all human rights by older persons...

In May 2014, the Human Rights Council appointed Ms. Rosa Kornfeld-Matte (Chile) as the first Independent Expert on the enjoyment of all human rights by older persons...
2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017...

No mentioning of a legally binding document on ageing...
...there is still no unanimity with regard to the need to develop a new international legally binding instrument specifically devoted to the rights of older persons... (p. 13)
Progress towards developing a legally binding document on the rights of older persons is slow.

The Human Rights Council,

3. Underscores the need to strengthen international, regional and bilateral cooperation and dialogue in the promotion and protection of human rights, including the human rights of older persons;

7. Decides… that the theme for the annual thematic panel discussion… to be held during its forty-first session, will be “Technical cooperation and capacity-building in the field of the human rights of older persons…”
In conclusion...
We need a convention on the rights of older persons, first and foremost, for ensuring and guaranteeing the human rights of older persons.

We need a global legally binding document on ageing for streamlining and advancing policy action on all major directions: social security, health, care, participation... We need it for constructing a society for all ages, as called for in the Madrid Plan of Action.
Thank you!
